

FINANCE CHANNEL Paradigm

An isolated knowledge program or issue, looked after by a privileged few or not implemented by a real and open discussion, is a paradox in itself and will not survive for long.

Knowledge-sharing is a way to achieve the goals in our personal or professional strategy.

It's a tool.

It's FINANCE CHANNEL's leading tool.

FINANCE CHANNEL Identity Card – Vision e Mission

We are a group, no matter if we are students, professors or professionals.

We are open to everyone believing that sharing knowledge is a power, a common, strategical and absolutely free power.

We all believe that only effective collaboration and communication which is spread across the whole community structure will give knowledge management the boost it really needs.

We believe that our collective expertise is an advantage and one of the most valuable assets in our management development and skills.

For us, sharing knowledge means creating a collaborative culture through communities of practice, professional networks that identify issues, share approaches, and make the results available to others.

FINANCE CHANNEL is, first of all, a community, a virtual group connected by interest and expertise in a specific discipline.

Our main effort is to share what we know or have learned, become “real experts”, identifying critical areas and suggesting solutions. By learning, to succeed in growing together.

Our contribution is enriched by research papers, technical briefings, product evaluations, and other reports.
